$1,975,000

3 Bedroom, 4.00 Bathroom, 912 sqft

Residential on 0.14 Acres

Benchlands, Canmore, Alberta

A masterwork of alpine design, this refined residence on Benchlands Terrace, with 2,794 sqft of living space, reflects the architectural vision of Robert LeBlondâ€™ Governor Generalâ€™s Awardâ€™winning architectâ€™who infused the home with a timeless mountain aesthetic and an unflinching connection to place. Set on a sloping site with commanding views of the Bow Valley, the home is both a serene retreat and a celebration of wilderness living.

The architecture unfolds across a thoughtfully executed three-level split, where form follows function and every detail reflects a legacy of craftsmanship. On the main level, vaulted ceilings soar above a sunlit living room, framed by exposed timber elements that evoke the strength and honesty of traditional alpine construction. Windows capture a panorama of peaks, while the adjoining kitchen and dining spaces offer an elegant canvas for gathering and entertaining.

Above, two upper-level bedroomsâ€™including the light-filled primary suiteâ€™offer a private vantage to the north and south. The primary opens directly onto a landscaped walkway leading south, where the line between indoors and out disappears into forest and sky.

The lower walkout level reveals a generous family room and an additional bedroom â€™ideal for hosting guests in comfort and seclusion. This level also connects seamlessly to the land below, where the wild character of the site is preserved and celebrated.

With a double car garage, enduring finishes, and a history of conscientious stewardship, 221 Benchlands Terrace offers not only architectural pedigree—but the rare opportunity to inhabit a home where design, nature, and timeless mountain spirit converge.
